RUSSIAN RIGHTS IN CHINA ARE GUARANTEED BY PEKING HEADS

Treaty Terms Of Old Regime To Be Upheld Under New Conditions

RUSSIAN LAW MAINTAINED

Nation Merely Waiting For Stable Government Is View At Capital

Russians in China will continue to enjoy the treaty rights granted to them by China during the old regime. The consular representatives of Russia were unable to represent their people so the Chinese Government decided to authorise the local commissioners of foreign affairs to carry out the functions which the consulates could no longer do. Russians in China will be tried in accordance with their own law.

This is the summary of an interview granted to a representative of THE CHINA PRESS by Mr. C. F. Hsu, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, who returned to Shanghai yesterday after spending two weeks in the North consulting the Government on the question of administration of Russian subjects in China as a result of China's withdrawal of recognition of the existing Russian diplomatic and consular services.

TAKE FRIENDLY ATTITUDE

Commissioner Hsu asserts that the Central Government and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs maintain the most friendly attitude towards the Russians and believe it is for the best interest of Russians in China particularly and foreigners here generally that the action was taken.

It is a mistake to suppose that China proposes to treat Russian subjects as those of nations without treaty relations with China, said Mr. Hsu. On the other hand, they will enjoy all the privileges they are entitled to under the old treaties.

The only difference caused by the Presidential Mandate of September 23 was withdrawal of recognition of a disabled system of diplomatic and consular service and to replace the service with Chinese officials who are in a position to give the Russians the protection and rights which they are entitled.

MOVE IS TEMPORARY

There are of course certain things which the Chinese authorities may not be able to accomplish, said Mr. Hsu. But in that case, the help of the former Russian authorities will be invited. To the Russians in a word, China has nothing but the best of good will.

The move that the Chinese Government has taken is temporary. When a permanent Russian Government is established and recognised by the Chinese and Allied Governments Peking will then take the necessary steps to turn over the interests now being controlled by China.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 14.—The Diplomatic Corps has asked the Chinese Government to give its formal assurance in regard to the Government's verbal statements that the measures taken in connection with the Russian subjects and Russian interests in China would be only temporary, in view of the effect on the mandate of September 23 upon the interests of other foreigners in China.

The Corps has also suggested that, owing to the difficulties connected with the control of Russian interests in China, the matter should be discussed between the diplomatic representatives and the Chinese Government.

Workers In Saxony Strike For Increase

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 12.—A big strike movement in Saxony is seriously pre-occupying the Government. It is estimated that 600,000 municipal employes have ceased work, demanding higher wages. Leipzig, Dresden and Chemnitz are without gas, water, electricity or trams.

Machine Guns Used By Irish Attackers

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—The official report of the ambushing of a motor-lorry at Kanturk yesterday says that the assailants, who numbered 150 men, used machine-guns, shot-guns and bombs. One soldier was killed and six wounded.

-:- Dynamiters Work In Wall Street -:-

General view of the Wall Street catastrophe a short time after the explosion occurred. Twenty-five persons were reported by the police to have been killed and from two to five hundred injured. The explosion took place in front of the offices of J. P. Morgan and Co., at the corner of Wall and Broad streets, at noon time. Every window in the Sub-Treasury Building, which is directly opposite the Morgan Building, was broken. The explosion was heard within a mile of the scene. A hole eight inches deep was torn in the thick pavement in front of the Morgan Building by the explosion. Hundreds of pedestrians were cut by flying glass.

PEASANTS RISE AGAINST SOVIET RULE IN RUSSIA

Anti-Bolshevists In Various Districts Make Demands For An Assembly

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—The Warsaw correspondent of the Times states that reports of anti-Bolshevik rising in Russia are multiplying. He learns from "an exceptionally trustworthy source" that the peasants in the Saratoff district have revolted in large numbers and the Communists have up to the present failed to suppress them.

There has been another peasant rising in the Smolensk district while Chinese troops have stamped out a revolt at Kronstadt with great bloodshed.

It is stated that the Social Revolutionaries at Petrovsky, Spiridova, Martoff and Tchernoff have assembled at Nijni-Novgorod, denounced the Soviet and demanded the summoning of a Constituent Assembly.

DISCUSS COMMUNISTS

Berlin, Oct. 12.—Over five hundred delegates attended the Independent Socialist Congress which opened at Halle today to decide on the acceptance or rejection of Moscow's conditions of adherence to the Third Internationale.

Herren Dittmann and Brass, representing the opponents and the adherents respectively, were elected Presidents.

Herr Crispien, Chairman of the Party, declared that the main issue was whether the party would retain its present character or be absorbed by the Communists. Decision was temporarily deferred.

SAY CHINA IS INVOLVED

Vladivostok, October 13.—The Communists accuse the non-Socialists of leaving the Cabinet owing to their disagreement with the majority of the Cabinet with regard to Chinese policy "through trying to keep up the former autocratic standpoint of not wishing to reconsider Russia's agreements with China in accordance with the democratic principles, which present-day circumstances demand; and placing their own party policy before national policy and thus laying the country open to internal warfare.

The Socialists with the Peasants' party are continuing a democratic policy, the results of which are shown in the recent agreements, concluded with Verdhne-Udinsk and Chita."

Japanese And Koreans In Battle On Border

Women Take Up Arms To Assist Revolutionists In Their Fight On Invaders

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Seoul, October 13.—A police patrol today encountered five Korean women on the left bank of the Yalu River. The suspicions of the police were aroused but, when they approached to make investigations, the women opened fire with revolvers.

The police returned the fire, killing three of the women. The others fled into the forests, pursued by the police.

A similar report comes from the Kankyohokudo Province where another party of women, armed with rifles and revolvers, was encountered. The police attacked, killing four women and capturing 1,600 rounds of ammunition.

CONSULATE RAIDED

A Korean correspondent writes. "Follwing the raid of the Japanese consulate at Hunchun on Oct. 2, which place just now is in the limelight on account of the influx of the Japanese troops to that region, there occurred a sanguinary battle between a detachment of the invading Japanese troops and some Korean independenists who were hiding in the neighboring hills. This happened very early in the morning of Oct. 4.

"In the face of the superior number of the attacking Japanese soldiers the Koreans finally had to flee, although it is reported that more than 14 Japanese were either wounded or killed. This incident heretofore has not been reported in the local press.

"In view of the serious condition in Korea this fresh encounter between the Japanese soldiers and the Koreans in that much disputed territory is very significant.

REVOLUTIONISTS RALLY

"The Japanese were seeking for some excuse to overrun the country just beyond the Korean border where it is no secret that many Korean revolutionists fully armed are waiting for the day when they can cross the border to fight it out. The Japanese Government is sending troops and even airplanes and from all indications the Japanese will occupy the Kanto and the Chientao districts where the inhabitants are predominently Koreans, and this will prove another feat of "fait accompli" of the Tokio War Office.

"In view of the present turbulent conditions in Peking, it appears that China will not even make the usual representations which even under normal conditions always go unheeded. Perhaps Dr. Barrows of the University of California who was with the American Army in Siberia is right when he made the statement the other day to the effect that the present Japanese agitation over the proposed California anti-Japanese law is only a "screen" to cover up some great impending move on the Asiatic mainland."

HUNT EXPLOSIVES

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, October 14.—The police at Yawata have recently been conducting a very active search for hoarders of explosives. A Korean is reported to have been arrested.

Yawato is a very large industrial town with gigantic Government ironworks, employing tens of thousands of workmen, including Koreans. According to recent police statements the place is becoming the "Reddest" spot in Japan. The Radicals are gaining followers amongst the workmen, many of whom are said to have "fondly" read Kropotkin and Marx."

VILNA CAPTOR FOLLOWS LEAD OF d'ANNUNZIO

Zeligovski Sets Up Own Government And Demands Nations' Recognition

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 12.—It appears that General Zeligovski, who has captured Vilna, is acting the part of a Polish d'Annunzio. A telegram received from Reuter's correspondent at Warsaw, states that he has sent a wireless message to the Polish Government, announcing the formation of an administrative council to exercise the civil power in Central Lithuania and requesting the Government's recognition of it.

NEW WRANGEL OFFENSIVE

New York, October 13.—The Riga correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that the preliminary peace treaty and armistice have been signed by the Polish and Soviet Russian delegates.

New York, October 13.—A telegram from Sebastopol to the Associated Press states that General Wrangel has launched an offensive against the 6th Soviet Army behind the Dnieper.

London, October 13.—A telegram from Riga of yesterday's date confirms the Associated Press report of the signing of the armistice and preliminary peace between Russia and Poland. The ceremony took place yesterday evening in the mediaeval hall of Blackheads. Public opinion at Riga regards the agreement merely as a contrivance to avoid winter fighting and not as a permanent peace.

POLES ENTHUSED

London, October 12.—General Zeligovski's coup de main has aroused popular enthusiasm in Poland where the allocation of Vilna to Lithuania is declared to violate the principle of self-determination.

The Polish Government, which was recently warned by Great Britain and France that an advance on Vilna would create serious political difficulties, is stated to have expressed strong disapproval of the coup de main.

The hope is semi-officially expressed in London that the Polish Government will take steps to compel the withdrawal of General Zeligovski's forces.

The Echo de Paris states that Great Britain and France have decided to leave the dispute to the League of Nations but are sending a joint note to Poland, counselling moderation.

Paris, October 12.—M. Leon Bourgeois, President of the Council of the League of Nations, has telegraphed to the League's military mission in Lithuania, asking for information with regard to the events at Vilna with a view to action to terminate General Zeligovski's occupation of Central Lithuania.

The mission replied that the Polish Government had disavowed General Zeligovski and had expressed readiness to take measures to end the incident.

RADICAL MINERS WIN BUT STRIKE MAY BE AVERTED

Moderates Make Big Fight In Federation To Renew Peace Negotiations

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 13.—Although the full results of the Miners' ballot will not be known until tomorrow sufficient figures are to hand to show that the majority of the miners throughout the country have disregarded Mr. Smillie's advice to give the mineowners' offer a trial and have plumped heavily against the datum line proposals with majorities ranging from 10 to 1 in parts of South Wales to 2 to 1 in Northumberland.

The next move lies with the Executive of the Miners' Federation meeting in London tomorrow, when the moderates will put up a big fight in favor of peace by renewed negotiations and will urge that the wages claim should be submitted to an impartial tribunal.

It is believed that this suggestion will be carried through, which will mean that another ballot of the men will probably be taken and that the strike will certainly be postponed if not abandoned.

Permanent Body To Handle Mandates For Nations' League

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 13.—The meeting of the Council of the League of Nations at Brussels on October 20 will have before it a very comprehensive agenda, including the constitution of a permanent Mandate Commission.

It is expected thot all States entrusted with mandates, will be represented on the Commission in addition to other States which will be included in order to place the mandatory Powers in a minority. A report will be prepared, suggesting methods of appointment for submission to the General Assembly of the League.

LI SHUN KILLED SELF COMMISSIONER HSU SAYS; MONARCHY PLOT DENIED

While Peking denies officially the coup d'etat as rumored in Shanghai for the last three days, Mr. C. F. Hsu, the local Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, brought back from the Nanking the reassuring news that Tuchun Li Shun did commit suicide and was not murdered.

Government Says Monarchists Have Taken No Action

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 14.—The Government has issued an official statement to the effect that there is no truth whatsoever in the alarmist reports circulated in Shanghai, as to a monarchist movement in North China, and that the situation is normal.

Peking, Oct. 14.—Chien Nung-hsun, will represent the President and Pan Fu the Prime Minister in regard to the arrangements for the funeral of Gen. Li Shun.

Vernacular papers state that Liang Shih-yi will succeed Gen. Li Shun as the Chief Northern Peace Delegate.

At a meeting this afternoon of Kiangsu gentry measures were discussed for the abolition of the Tuchunship in Kiangsu. The majority of those present were in favor of advocating the appointment of Chi Sieh-yuan as special commissioner, to take over the Kiangsu troops after the abolition has been effected.

NO TROOPS SENT

In addition to the denial issued officially by Peking, Mr. C. F. Hsu, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Shanghai, yesterday stated that Peking was quiet when he left there October 11.

The report of President Hsu's indisposition was absolutely unfounded. Commissioner Hsu saw the executive while in Peking and found him to be most active, receiving many guests daily and entertaining the hope of early peace between the North and the South. Mr. Hsu attributed the report of Chang Tso-lin's monarchical movement to the sudden death of General Li.

NO TROOPS MOVED

From Hangchow, THE CHINA PRESS yesterday received the following telegram from General Lu Yung-hsiang, the Tuchun, in response to its inquiry made on Wednesday.

"For the Perusal of THE CHINA PRESS.

"We have been favored with your inquiry about the report that our office has been requested by a certain person to despatch troops to Nanking. The report is contrary to fact. The peace and order of Shanghai and Chekiang will be maintained for the present with the best of my ability.

"Lu Yung-hsiang, October 14, 1920."

General Chi Given Confidence Of His Army And People

Commissioner Hsu had been in Peking to consult with President Hsu Shih-chang, Premier Chin Yung-peng and the Foreign Minister, Dr. W. W. Yen, on the Russian status in China. He reached Nanking 12 hours after General Li took his own life and was present when his wound and will in the form of four letters were photographed and when his body was placed in the coffin on Wednesday afternoon.

"Nanking is quiet and the people are as calm as usual," said Commissioner Hsu when seen by a representative of THE CHINA PRESS after he returned to his bureau yesterday. "All the residents are convinced that there was no foul play as reported. The suddenness of the news of suicide naturally upset many people, but the confidence which people have in his successor, General Chi Shih-yuan who has been acting for him and who was the real military head of the province, ought to bridge over the present situation without trouble.

"The military officers, the brigade, regiment and other commanders are all in favor of having General Chi and will support him for the Tuchunship. He has the situation well in hand and the military affairs of the province will go on as if General Li were indisposed."

CAREFULLY PLANS DEATH

The Commissioner told the facts concerning the tragedy which gave rise to rumors in Shanghai and elsewhere. He showed the representative of THE CHINA PRESS photographs of the autographed letters of General Li, which Mr. Hsu had shown to the Senior Consul and other officials in the community. He said there was not a shadow of doubt in his mind that General Li wanted to die and had planned the suicide for at least two days. The letters were dated October 10 and 11.

For three days prior to his death, according to Commissioner Hsu, General Li had been weeping in the presence of his wife. Madame Li believed that her husband was declining in health and did much to comfort him.

On October 11, General Li received his guests as usual. It was not until 1 o'clock on the morning of October 12 that his last guest left him. Then General Li began his correspondence. It was usual for General Li to write letters after his guests had gone. Madame Li retired at 3 o'clock when General Li was still writing. She rested in the same room as the Tuchun, in another bed.

WIFE IS AWAKENED

About 4:40 o'clock, Madame Li heard some sound, like the report of the pistol, and she got up. As she neared General Li's bed, she kicked a small heavy object on the floor. In her anxiety to see her husband's condition, she did not stoop to see the object. The Tuchun's countenance was found to have changed greatly, while heavy breathing was still to be heard.

Madame Li thought the Tuchun was having one of his usual apoplectic fits, so she called a Japanese doctor in attendance. The doctor discovered something extraordinary with the pulse of the general and began to make an examination of his lungs. In loosening his patient's shirt, the doctor discovered a wound on the right side a few inches below the chest.

A search was made and a small Browning pistol was later found on the floor. A bag in which General Li used to keep his own important documents and which was always kept in his bed was opened and the letters were found setting forth the reason of his act.

HERE ARE THE LETTERS

A translation of the letters written in General Li's own handwriting as brought down to Shanghai by Commissioner Hsu follows:

"It is difficult for me to describe the suffering that I have been undergoing during the last two months when I have been sick. A great deal of wrong has

American Fleets Advance In Gunnery

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, October 13.—Mr. Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, has written to Admiral Wilson and Admiral Rodman, the commanders of the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets, commending the marked progress in efficiency shown by both Fleets in their performances in the annual gunnery and engineering tests.

Flammarion Weds At Age Of 78 Years

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 12.—The marriage has taken place of M. Camille Flammarion, the eminent astronomer, and Mlle. Gabrielle Renaudot, with whom he has collaborated for many years and in some of his most famous works.

Like M. Anatole France, whose marriage has just been announced, M. Flammarion is a septuagenarian, having been born in 1842.

"I cannot maintain any hope of my recovery within a reasonable time and my request for leave of absence has been denied. Confined in bed as I am to watch the country and the province falling and declining, I have nothing but myself and heaven to blame.

"Why should my name and honor be destroyed by sickness? Is not this the most hated thing a man could suffer? Conscienciously speaking, I am really ashamed to face my people, therefore I offer my life as a sacrifice to appease the people of the province as well as the country.

"Even though I may be scorned for being a coward in future generations. I am comfortable so far as my conscience does not hurt me. Whether I have been right or wrong as a military governor, the future generations will decide by their own opinion.

"The action I am taking is taken willingly. I write this in order that no misunderstandings will be created by my action.

"Li Shun—Dated October 10, 9th year of the Republic."

SECOND MESSAGE

The second message under date of October 11 was addressed to the Central Government. Its translation reads:

"In vain I have worked for the unification of my country which I love dearly. I fail to see that an understanding is in sight. My last wish is that my brother and sister citizens shall not strive after power and self-aggrandisement but do everything in order to save their country from being overthrown. Were everyone to sacrifice something, then I would be able to smile in Hades.

"Li Shun—October 11."

THIRD MESSAGE

The third message reads:

"On behalf of the people, I would like to ask Tuchun Lu, (General Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang), to maintain the peace and order of the Provinces of Kiangsu and Chekiang. I would be most thankful to him even if I were in the shadow world.

"On behalf of the people, I would further ask Civil Governor Chi to remain at his post until his successor arrives. As I have never accepted the post as Inspector-General of Kiangsu, Kiangsi, and Anhui, I would ask the Central Government to choose a suitable man to hold the position. My other wish is that General Chi Shih-yuan (his chief aide-de-camp who has been appointed Assistant Inspector-General of the three provinces mentioned) be appointed Tuchun of Kiangsu."

FOURTH MESSAGE

The fourth message was written to General Chang Wen-sung, Tuchun of Anhui and General Chi Shih-yuen, Deputy Inspector-General of the Provinces of Kiangsu, Kiangsi and Anhui. It follows:

"The new An-wu troops are now under the command of General Chang Wen-sung, Tuchun of Anhui, and the rations of these troops are generally given by the Ministry of War. However, since no funds have been received, I hereby order that funds for the months of October and November, about $200,000, be paid to them from the Nanking yamen funds. This order is given in order that the men shall not cause any outbreaks to the disturbance of the people."

FIFTH MESSAGE

The fifth letter written as early as October 9 was addressed to Major-General Li Kwei-san, his brother. It says:

"Dear Brother Kwei-san: I cannot describe adequately the sufferings that I am undergoing on account of my sickness. Should I be allowed to drag along causing harm to the country and people, my conscience will hurt me immensely. Therefore I have decided to resort to this cowardly scheme to redeem myself and for the good of the people. This will save my name and honor which I have been striving for and let future generations remember me. I wish to make the following wishes to you:

"(1) I have been in government service for over 20 years during which I have tried to be honest. The amount of property inherited from our ancestors, earned through working during all my life and gained by industrial enterprises totals only some $2,000,000-odd. I will subscribe one-fourth of my cash deposits towards the famine relief fund of Chihli in order to redeem my sins, another one-fourth towards the founding of the Nankai University (Tientsin) and the remainder to your sisters-in-law (the two wives of General Li) as well as you for the support of the family. Understand that it is not advisable to keep too much money. Little money will mean great happiness to your descendants.

MAKES BEQUESTS

"(2) I hope you will treat my first wife kindly. She is both faithful and virtuous. Don't forget my words.

"(3) Arrange to give my second wife sufficient funds to last for her remaining years and allow her to spend her life with her mother's family.

"(4) Give $2,000 each to the four concubines and allow them to return to their family in order to get married again. They should not be detained in our family too long and injure my good name.

"(5) I trust to you all my family affairs. Kuo Tung-hsian, (Li's family accountant and secretary) is a loyal and honest man. No trouble will be experienced if the matters are left to his care.

"(6) The most essential thing is to take care of your health. Then you should administer the affairs of your family systematically and economically. Weigh my words carefully!

"Your brother, Shun—October 9."

All official bureaus of the province will fly their flags at half mast in honor of the late Tuchun.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, October 14.—The reports of the death of General Li Shun are prominently featured in the Japanese papers today but the papers appear to be unable to understand the real cause of the tragedy and are also curious as to what the effect will be on China's internal politics.

Fearon, Daniel & Co. Named Defendants In Tls. 70,000 Suit

Fearon, Daniel and Co. were named defendants in a Tls. 70,000 claim filed by its former assistant manager, Fred R. Hanish, yesterday in the United States Court for China. The claim was for alleged breach of contract on the part of the defendants.

Plaintiff alleged that he signed a contract to serve as assistant manager for three years at an annual salary of Tls. 12,000 and 10 percent of profit made in the export department of the firm and that he was discharged without due cause.

Judge Charles S. Lobingier heard the case. Mr. S. Fessendan represented the plaintiff, while defendants were represented by Mr. R. T. Bryan, jr. The case for plaintiff was concluded yesterday and the hearing of the defense was begun and will be resumed at a later session.

Mr. Fessenden opened by calling plaintiff who said he was 33 years of age and had been almost a year in Shanghai. He came here to take over the position of assistant manager to defendants. He resided at No. 5 Love Lane.

The original contract between the parties was handed in.

Plaintiff said he remained with defendants until July of this year. He was then discharged.

Q.—At the time of your dismissal had you performed all the terms of the contract? A.—As far as I was permitted.

Q.—Do you know of any just cause why defendants should have dismissed you? A.—No.

At the time of his dismissal he was willing to carry on his contract. His claim of Tls. 70,000 represented the face value of the contract from the time of his dismissal until its proper termination. At Tls. 1,000 a month for 4 years and a month that amounted to Tls. 49,000: passage money home for himself and family he had figured at Tls. 1,500; and the balance was an estimate of the 10 percent commission to which he was entitled under the contract. He had never been able to procure a statement of the firm's accounts here.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bryan—He was not a natural born American. He became a citizen the month before the war. He was a Saxon before that.

Q.—In other words you were a German subject. A.—Yes.

The letter of dismissal assigned nineteen reasons for his discharge. Mr. Nichols requested witness to go to New York to clear up certain speculative contracts which had been made. He never questioned Mr. Nichol's authority.

Mr. Bryan handed in what he described as a very important letter in that it was a refusal to go to New York from plaintiff.

Plaintiff thought it was the business of the New York office to clear that matter up. He did not know the company was opposed to speculative purchases. They could never have done any business unless they bought ahead. There had never been anything dictated to him as to the company's policy being against speculative buying.

It had always been the policy of the Company to speculate and they could not help but speculate. The policy had to be dictated in Shanghai by Mr. Nichols and witness had never had any instructions from Mr. Nichols not to speculate. Mr. Nichols knew of all these purchases and did not object. Part of certain cargo, bought on the same basis as the contracts alleged against witness, was bought before witness reached Shanghai.

Witness bought certain albumen after consultation with Mr. Nichols.

Q.—And he told you not to buy it? A.—He did not.

Witness said he signed all the contracts. They were speculative purchases. Witness had full power of attorney.

Re-examined—

Q.—Why did you refuse to go to New York A.—The term of contract had something to do with his refusal.

He wrote to Mr. Nichols and gave conditions upon which he would go to New York. Mr. Nichols at first assented. The idea was to go by Europe to see Mr. Brown at Hamburg. Mr. Brown had been in Europe during almost the whole duration of the war. He left New York in the autumn of 1914. He was really the authority and stockholder to the knowledge of witness, of over 90 percent of the capital stock of both corporations, in New York and Shanghai. Mr. Nichols later asked him to go to New York direct. The corporation was a New Jersey corporation. He could not have done very much if he had gone to New York.

Mr. Nichols had never instructed him not to make the purchases referred to by Mr. Bryan. In making these deals he had abided by the terms of his contract. He had no instruction about speculative business, except that he desired they would be cautious in these in view of the firm's financial standing. Mr. Nichols received cables from New York, the answers to which were never shown to witness. Mr. Nichols must have seen the orders made by witness in these transactions. Prior to his arrival in Shanghai he was with Fearon, Brown and Co.—closely allied with Fearon, Daniel and Co. The question of speculative purchases had been broadly discussed in New York. Speculation was recommended.

A motion for non-suit by Mr. Bryan was over-ruled.

Testifying for the defense, Mr. Nichols, president and general manager of Fearon, Daniel and Company, declared that Mr. Hanish had been dismissed for general misconduct of the export department, demoralisation of the staff, making speculative purchases, attempting to deceive his superiors, and insubordination.

Asked how the plaintiff had demoralised the staff, Mr. Nichols stated that Hanish had mistreated, cursed and threatened to discharge his subordinates until practically all the members of the export department declared their intention of resigning.

Q.—What was the feeling of the staff toward Mr. Hanish?

Q.—Was the work of the office carried on as smoothly after the coming of Mr. Hanish as before?

A.—"No, for the actions of the assistant general manager affected everybody and demoralised the whole taff. The employes of the export department worked as hard for him as for his predecessor because they were driven. The fact that they were controlled by fear, however, made them less efficient than they would have been if they had been working because they had the interest of the firm at heart."

Mr. Nichols then referred specifically to one occasion when he left for Tientsin, leaving Mr. Hanish in charge. During the period of his absence, he said, everybody in the office took exception to the assistant manager's treatment of the persons.

KU-KLUX KLAN IS REVIVED IN SOUTH AS COTTON DROPS

Night Riders Make Threats Of Destruction Unless Prices Are Raised

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 12.—A New York telegram reports that night-riders are spreading terror through the cotton-growing States. They are men—most of them farmers—who have been bitterly disappointed in their expectation of the present cotton crop, and are determined that no cotton shall be ginned until the price advances to 40 cents per pound.

Picked companies sally out at night, and post up threatening notices at gin and fields. They also leave boxes of matches where they may be seen by the owners, this being more eloquent of the irate farmers' intentions than any other form of threat.

The negroes are terrified, as they believe this movement is a revival of the notorious "Ku-Klux-Klan", so that it is almost impossible to get black labor to continue in the cottonfields.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 14.—The inexplicable delay in connection with the Shaw case is arousing British residents to the fact that no charge has yet been formulated against Mr. Shaw, although he has been imprisoned for some three months, and despite the fact that strong representations have been made by the British Government.

BUREAU TO TELL BUSINESS MEN OF DISCOVERIES

New Organisation Formed By Government To Promote Latest Devices

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 24 (by mail).—To develop neglected sources of public and private profit through the application of new processes, discovered by Department of Agriculture experts, an office of Development Work has been created by Secretary Meredith in the Bureau of Chemistry. The staff will be made up of engineers, headed by Mr. David J. Price, chief-engineer in the dust-explosion investigations conducted by the department, who will furnish for the convenience of manufactures data upon raw material supply, cost of production and the uses to which the product is adapted.

Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, the sponsor of the new plan, said that such a service was "Urgently needed to translate the work of the Bureau into terms that could be understood and applied by the manufacturer and the investor." Every year, he said, valuable discoveries are made concerning the utilisation of manufacturing waste: a new food is found, or a new dye, glue or preservative. It will be the business of the new office to give such discoveries practical application.

Mechanical Dairy Plan In America

Lack Of Pasturage In War Town Leads To Promotion Of Novel Scheme

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 23 (by mail).—Lack of pasturage for dairy cattle in the vicinity of Nitro, West Va., resulted in the establishment at that warbuilt city of a "mechanical dairy," where milk and cream equivalent to the output of a farm with 1,500 milch cows was produced, according to a Government report just published. Bottles and cans of the fluid were labelled reconstructed milk or cream and nitrolac.

Nitro is situated in a mountainous district where little, if any, natural pasturage is available. Local milk supplies were barely sufficient to satisfy the normal demands of Charlestown, the nearest metropolis. Expansion of the natural supply being out of the question, the public health service was asked for aid and the first "mechanical dairy" resulted.

The process used is described as the "emulsification of butter fat obtained from unsalted butter in a solution of skimmed milk powder or diluted evaporated milk." A building, 150 feet long by 51 feet wide was constructed and provided with huge mixing vats, refrigerators and bottling apparatus. Chemically pure water was used in the mixing and careful tests made of the product which proved to be a little superior, if anything, the report said, to natural milk.

Prosecutors Are In Disgrace In Japan Trial For Graft

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Kyoto, October 14.—The public trial of ex-Governor Kiuchi of the Kyoto Prefecture, and a large number of other prominent citizens, on a charge of bribery, is now nearing its conclusion. The Counsels for the defense, who include the best legal talent in Japan, are vigorously contradicting the Public Prosecutor's theories.

All the Public Prosecutors, who originally handled the case, have now been discharged, largely because of their methods of treating the accused, including the famous "wine-box" confinement.

The Counsels for the defense point out that the case has attracted wide attention and declare that the outside world regards the methods of the prosecutors as a stain upon the prestige of the Japanese Judiciary.

John Wanamaker Made Head Of Sunday School Association Of World

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 14.—The delegates attending the World Sunday-School Convention were entertained at a reception by the Japanese Patrons' Association.

Count Uchida, in the course of a speech in English, urged international co-operation.

"No nation," he said, "could live alone. It must work with others for the mutual good, meeting them on a high plane of equality and justice. The day of Machiavellian diplomacy is over. If all nations follow the principles of Christianity, no international question is incapable of solution."

BUDDHISTS' GOOD WILL

Messages were read from Marquis Okuma and Viscount Shibusawa. The latter wrote:

"We are all children of one Creator, and citizens of the same world. There is no conflict between Buddhism and Christianity in the teaching of children."

Though himself a Buddhist, he supported the Convention, because a religious awakening was needed, from whatever source it might come.

Baron Sakatani, a prominent worker in the cause of international friendship, who presided, said there must be a common morality. The tremendous duty of preserving the peace of an earth devolved upon Christians.

Justice Maclaren, of Ontario, in reply, expressed the Convention's thanks to Japan, from the Emperor to the humblest citizen.

WANAMAKER PRESIDENT

Mr. John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, has been elected President of the World Sunday-School Association. The other officers elected include Justice Maclaren, (Toronto), Mr. Carey Bonner (London), Sir Croydon Marks (London) all of whom are Vice-Presidents, while Mr. Paul Sturdevant (New York) was elected Treasurer.

China's two representatives on the committee have not yet been selected.

The British members of the Executive Committee are: Mr. Arthur Black, Mr. J. W. Butcher, Mr. Javes Crowther, Mr. Frank Cheshire, Miss Emily Huntley, Mr. Frank Johnson, Mr. E. R. Nicole, Mr. W. C. Poole (all of London), Mr. James Cunningman (Glasgow) and Miss Grace Edwards (Croydon), leaving five more to be selected.

FOR RACIAL EQUALITY

Tokio, October 14.—The World Sunday-School Convention emphatically affirmed the principle of racial equality at a meeting last night, when the following resolution was adopted:

"We, the delegates to the World's Eighth Sunday-School Convention assembled in Tokio, representing thirty million officers, teachers and scholars of thirty countries, affirm the following proposition, embodying the principles of world-brotherhood, with special reference to international relationships:

"Firstly, we affirm our unshaken belief in the solidarity of the human race, and further affirm our conviction that any conception of racial or national integrity which ignores this basic fact imperils the security of the world.

AGAINST ALL DISCORD

"Secondly, we record our appreciation of every movement making for the deepening of the sense of mutual indebtedness and obligation among nations. We likewise deplore every action that makes for misunderstanding, discord and dissension.

"Thirdly, we attest our confidence in the practicability of world-brotherhood, and hold fealty to a principle of common good more cohesive than a mere similarity of customs, habits and manners.

"Fourthly, we maintain that any national or international policy which seems to discriminate in the treatment of nations and races engenders bitterness, and is subversive of the best interests of mankind and indiomical to the peace of the world.

TOLERANCE URGED

"Fifthly, we believe all national and international problems are solverable and all international difficulties adjustable, if dealt with in a spirit of dignified tolerance and noble conciliation. Christian forbearance and Christian altruism must take the place of enlightened self-interest in the settlement of all international contentions.

"Sixthly, world-brotherhood requires an international consciousness.

"Seventhly, we call upon the nations to heed the warning given by the present world chaos, and deliberately to refrain from taking any provocative national action which would wound national honor, discount national prestige, or be of such a character as to create suspicion, resentment or revenge."

The resolution was read in both English and Japanese, after which a roar of "Ayes" recorded a unanimous vote.

BRAZIL MAY BAR EXPORTS OF GOLD

Plan Is Made To Protect Industries With Great Credit Reserve

(Reuter's Service)

New York, September 19 (by mail).—The Rio de Janeiro correspondent of the Associated Press writes:

Under a measure just introduced in the Chamber of Deputies, the Brazilian Government would be given the power to intervene as buyer or seller in commercial markets, to acquire national products and hold them for sale at an opportune time, to make loans to producers on such and to organise special credits for this purpose.

The object of the proposed measure are stated to be the defence of Brazilian production and the avoidance of the consequences of speculation, lack of transport and other causes which are keeping back the progress of national production.

To carry out the provisions of the law the measure proposes that the Government be authorised to make emissions of money and to conduct internal and foreign credit operations up to $250,000,000.

Gains accruing from such operations are to be employed in the purchase for deposit in the national Treasury of all gold from Brazilian mines, the exportation of which will continue to be prohibited. In the purchase of minted or bar gold of whatever origin for the same purpose and in the amortisation of the domestic and foreign debt by securing bonds at a lower quotation.

"I cannot maintain any hope of my recovery within a reasonable time and my request for leave of absence has been denied. Confined in bed as I am to watch the country and the province falling and declining, I have nothing but myself and heaven to blame.

"Why should my name and honor be destroyed by sickness? Is not this the most hated thing a man could suffer? Conscienciously speaking, I am really ashamed to face my people, therefore I offer my life as a sacrifice to appease the people of the province as well as the country.

"Even though I may be scorned for being a coward in future generations. I am comfortable so far as my conscience does not hurt me. Whether I have been right or wrong as a military governor, the future generations will decide by their own opinion.

"The action I am taking is taken willingly. I write this in order that no misunderstandings will be created by my action.

"Li Shun—Dated October 10, 9th year of the Republic."

SECOND MESSAGE

The second message under date of October 11 was addressed to the Central Government. Its translation reads:

"In vain I have worked for the unification of my country which I love dearly. I fail to see that an understanding is in sight. My last wish is that my brother and sister citizens shall not strive after power and self-aggrandisement but do everything in order to save their country from being overthrown. Were everyone to sacrifice something, then I would be able to smile in Hades.

"Li Shun—October 11."

THIRD MESSAGE

The third message reads:

"On behalf of the people, I would like to ask Tuchun Lu, (General Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang), to maintain the peace and order of the Provinces of Kiangsu and Chekiang. I would be most thankful to him even if I were in the shadow world.

"On behalf of the people, I would further ask Civil Governor Chi to remain at his post until his successor arrives. As I have never accepted the post as Inspector-General of Kiangsu, Kiangsi, and Anhui, I would ask the Central Government to choose a suitable man to hold the position. My other wish is that General Chi Shih-yuan (his chief aide-de-camp who has been appointed Assistant Inspector-General of the three provinces mentioned) be appointed Tuchun of Kiangsu."

FOURTH MESSAGE

The fourth message was written to General Chang Wen-sung, Tuchun of Anhui and General Chi Shih-yuen, Deputy Inspector-General of the Provinces of Kiangsu, Kiangsi and Anhui. It follows:

"The new An-wu troops are now under the command of General Chang Wen-sung, Tuchun of Anhui, and the rations of these troops are generally given by the Ministry of War. However, since no funds have been received, I hereby order that funds for the months of October and November, about $200,000, be paid to them from the Nanking yamen funds. This order is given in order that the men shall not cause any outbreaks to the disturbance of the people."

FIFTH MESSAGE

The fifth letter written as early as October 9 was addressed to Major-General Li Kwei-san, his brother. It says:

"Dear Brother Kwei-san: I cannot describe adequately the sufferings that I am undergoing on account of my sickness. Should I be allowed to drag along causing harm to the country and people, my conscience will hurt me immensely. Therefore I have decided to resort to this cowardly scheme to redeem myself and for the good of the people. This will save my name and honor which I have been striving for and let future generations remember me. I wish to make the following wishes to you:

"(1) I have been in government service for over 20 years during which I have tried to be honest. The amount of property inherited from our ancestors, earned through working during all my life and gained by industrial enterprises totals only some $2,000,000-odd. I will subscribe one-fourth of my cash deposits towards the famine relief fund of Chihli in order to redeem my sins, another one-fourth towards the founding of the Nankai University (Tientsin) and the remainder to your sisters-in-law (the two wives of General Li) as well as you for the support of the family. Understand that it is not advisable to keep too much money. Little money will mean great happiness to your descendants.

MAKES BEQUESTS

"(2) I hope you will treat my first wife kindly. She is both faithful and virtuous. Don't forget my words.

"(3) Arrange to give my second wife sufficient funds to last for her remaining years and allow her to spend her life with her mother's family.

"(4) Give $2,000 each to the four concubines and allow them to return to their family in order to get married again. They should not be detained in our family too long and injure my good name.

"(5) I trust to you all my family affairs. Kuo Tung-hsian, (Li's family accountant and secretary) is a loyal and honest man. No trouble will be experienced if the matters are left to his care.

"(6) The most essential thing is to take care of your health. Then you should administer the affairs of your family systematically and economically. Weigh my words carefully!

"Your brother, Shun—October 9."

All official bureaus of the province will fly their flags at half mast in honor of the late Tuchun.

Fearon, Daniel & Co. Named Defendants In Tls. 70,000 Suit

Fearon, Daniel and Co. were named defendants in a Tls. 70,000 claim filed by its former assistant manager, Fred R. Hanish, yesterday in the United States Court for China. The claim was for alleged breach of contract on the part of the defendants.

Plaintiff alleged that he signed a contract to serve as assistant manager for three years at an annual salary of Tls. 12,000 and 10 percent of profit made in the export department of the firm and that he was discharged without due cause.

Judge Charles S. Lobingier heard the case. Mr. S. Fessendan represented the plaintiff, while defendants were represented by Mr. R. T. Bryan, jr. The case for plaintiff was concluded yesterday and the hearing of the defense was begun and will be resumed at a later session.

Mr. Fessenden opened by calling plaintiff who said he was 33 years of age and had been almost a year in Shanghai. He came here to take over the position of assistant manager to defendants. He resided at No. 5 Love Lane.

The original contract between the parties was handed in.

Plaintiff said he remained with defendants until July of this year. He was then discharged.

Q.—At the time of your dismissal had you performed all the terms of the contract? A.—As far as I was permitted.

Q.—Do you know of any just cause why defendants should have dismissed you? A.—No.

At the time of his dismissal he was willing to carry on his contract. His claim of Tls. 70,000 represented the face value of the contract from the time of his dismissal until its proper termination. At Tls. 1,000 a month for 4 years and a month that amounted to Tls. 49,000: passage money home for himself and family he had figured at Tls. 1,500; and the balance was an estimate of the 10 percent commission to which he was entitled under the contract. He had never been able to procure a statement of the firm's accounts here.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bryan—He was not a natural born American. He became a citizen the month before the war. He was a Saxon before that.

Q.—In other words you were a German subject. A.—Yes.

The letter of dismissal assigned nineteen reasons for his discharge. Mr. Nichols requested witness to go to New York to clear up certain speculative contracts which had been made. He never questioned Mr. Nichol's authority.

Mr. Bryan handed in what he described as a very important letter in that it was a refusal to go to New York from plaintiff.

Plaintiff thought it was the business of the New York office to clear that matter up. He did not know the company was opposed to speculative purchases. They could never have done any business unless they bought ahead. There had never been anything dictated to him as to the company's policy being against speculative buying.

It had always been the policy of the Company to speculate and they could not help but speculate. The policy had to be dictated in Shanghai by Mr. Nichols and witness had never had any instructions from Mr. Nichols not to speculate. Mr. Nichols knew of all these purchases and did not object. Part of certain cargo, bought on the same basis as the contracts alleged against witness, was bought before witness reached Shanghai.

Q.—And he told you not to buy it? A.—He did not.

Witness said he signed all the contracts. They were speculative purchases. Witness had full power of attorney.

Re-examined—

Q.—Why did you refuse to go to New York A.—The term of contract had something to do with his refusal.

He wrote to Mr. Nichols and gave conditions upon which he would go to New York. Mr. Nichols at first assented. The idea was to go by Europe to see Mr. Brown at Hamburg. Mr. Brown had been in Europe during almost the whole duration of the war. He left New York in the autumn of 1914. He was really the authority and stockholder to the knowledge of witness, of over 90 percent of the capital stock of both corporations, in New York and Shanghai. Mr. Nichols later asked him to go to New York direct. The corporation was a New Jersey corporation. He could not have done very much if he had gone to New York.

Mr. Nichols had never instructed him not to make the purchases referred to by Mr. Bryan. In making these deals he had abided by the terms of his contract. He had no instruction about speculative business, except that he desired they would be cautious in these in view of the firm's financial standing. Mr. Nichols received cables from New York, the answers to which were never shown to witness. Mr. Nichols must have seen the orders made by witness in these transactions. Prior to his arrival in Shanghai he was with Fearon, Brown and Co.—closely allied with Fearon, Daniel and Co. The question of speculative purchases had been broadly discussed in New York. Speculation was recommended.

A motion for non-suit by Mr. Bryan was over-ruled.

Testifying for the defense, Mr. Nichols, president and general manager of Fearon, Daniel and Company, declared that Mr. Hanish had been dismissed for general misconduct of the export department, demoralisation of the staff, making speculative purchases, attempting to deceive his superiors, and insubordination.

Asked how the plaintiff had demoralised the staff, Mr. Nichols stated that Hanish had mistreated, cursed and threatened to discharge his subordinates until practically all the members of the export department declared their intention of resigning.

Q.—What was the feeling of the staff toward Mr. Hanish?

Q.—Was the work of the office carried on as smoothly after the coming of Mr. Hanish as before?

A.—"No, for the actions of the assistant general manager affected everybody and demoralised the whole taff. The employes of the export department worked as hard for him as for his predecessor because they were driven. The fact that they were controlled by fear, however, made them less efficient than they would have been if they had been working because they had the interest of the firm at heart."

Mr. Nichols then referred specifically to one occasion when he left for Tientsin, leaving Mr. Hanish in charge. During the period of his absence, he said, everybody in the office took exception to the assistant manager's treatment of the persons.

KU-KLUX KLAN IS REVIVED IN SOUTH AS COTTON DROPS

Night Riders Make Threats Of Destruction Unless Prices Are Raised

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 12.—A New York telegram reports that night-riders are spreading terror through the cotton-growing States. They are men—most of them farmers—who have been bitterly disappointed in their expectation of the present cotton crop, and are determined that no cotton shall be ginned until the price advances to 40 cents per pound.

Picked companies sally out at night, and post up threatening notices at gin and fields. They also leave boxes of matches where they may be seen by the owners, this being more eloquent of the irate farmers' intentions than any other form of threat.

The negroes are terrified, as they believe this movement is a revival of the notorious "Ku-Klux-Klan", so that it is almost impossible to get black labor to continue in the cottonfields.

BUREAU TO TELL BUSINESS MEN OF DISCOVERIES

New Organisation Formed By Government To Promote Latest Devices

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 24 (by mail).—To develop neglected sources of public and private profit through the application of new processes, discovered by Department of Agriculture experts, an office of Development Work has been created by Secretary Meredith in the Bureau of Chemistry. The staff will be made up of engineers, headed by Mr. David J. Price, chief-engineer in the dust-explosion investigations conducted by the department, who will furnish for the convenience of manufactures data upon raw material supply, cost of production and the uses to which the product is adapted.

Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, the sponsor of the new plan, said that such a service was "Urgently needed to translate the work of the Bureau into terms that could be understood and applied by the manufacturer and the investor." Every year, he said, valuable discoveries are made concerning the utilisation of manufacturing waste: a new food is found, or a new dye, glue or preservative. It will be the business of the new office to give such discoveries practical application.

Mechanical Dairy Plan In America

Lack Of Pasturage In War Town Leads To Promotion Of Novel Scheme

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 23 (by mail).—Lack of pasturage for dairy cattle in the vicinity of Nitro, West Va., resulted in the establishment at that warbuilt city of a "mechanical dairy," where milk and cream equivalent to the output of a farm with 1,500 milch cows was produced, according to a Government report just published. Bottles and cans of the fluid were labelled reconstructed milk or cream and nitrolac.

Nitro is situated in a mountainous district where little, if any, natural pasturage is available. Local milk supplies were barely sufficient to satisfy the normal demands of Charlestown, the nearest metropolis. Expansion of the natural supply being out of the question, the public health service was asked for aid and the first "mechanical dairy" resulted.

The process used is described as the "emulsification of butter fat obtained from unsalted butter in a solution of skimmed milk powder or diluted evaporated milk." A building, 150 feet long by 51 feet wide was constructed and provided with huge mixing vats, refrigerators and bottling apparatus. Chemically pure water was used in the mixing and careful tests made of the product which proved to be a little superior, if anything, the report said, to natural milk.

Prosecutors Are In Disgrace In Japan Trial For Graft

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Kyoto, October 14.—The public trial of ex-Governor Kiuchi of the Kyoto Prefecture, and a large number of other prominent citizens, on a charge of bribery, is now nearing its conclusion. The Counsels for the defense, who include the best legal talent in Japan, are vigorously contradicting the Public Prosecutor's theories.

All the Public Prosecutors, who originally handled the case, have now been discharged, largely because of their methods of treating the accused, including the famous "swine-box" confinement.

The Counsels for the defense point out that the case has attracted wide attention and declare that the outside world regards the methods of the prosecutors as a stain upon the prestige of the Japanese Judiciary.

John Wanamaker Made Head Of Sunday School Association Of World

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 14.—The delegates attending the World Sunday-School Convention were entertained at a reception by the Japanese Patrons' Association.

Count Uchida, in the course of a speech in English, urged international co-operation.

"No nation," he said, "could live alone. It must work with others for the mutual good, meeting them on a high plane of equality and justice. The day of Machiavellian diplomacy is over. If all nations follow the principles of Christianity, no international question is incapable of solution."

BUDDHISTS' GOOD WILL

Messages were read from Marquis Okuma and Viscount Shibusawa. The latter wrote:

"We are all children of one Creator, and citizens of the same world. There is no conflict between Buddhism and Christianity in the teaching of children."

Though himself a Buddhist, he supported the Convention, because a religious awakening was needed, from whatever source it might come.

Baron Sakatani, a prominent worker in the cause of international friendship, who presided, said there must be a common morality. The tremendous duty of preserving the peace of an earth devolved upon Christians.

Justice Maclaren, of Ontario, in reply, expressed the Convention's thanks to Japan, from the Emperor to the humblest citizen.

WANAMAKER PRESIDENT

Mr. John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, has been elected President of the World Sunday-School Association. The other officers elected include Justice Maclaren, (Toronto), Mr. Carey Bonner (London), Sir Croydon Marks (London) all of whom are Vice-Presidents, while Mr. Paul Sturdevant (New York) was elected Treasurer.

China's two representatives on the committee have not yet been selected.

The British members of the Executive Committee are: Mr. Arthur Black, Mr. J. W. Butcher, Mr. Javes Crowther, Mr. Frank Cheshire, Miss Emily Huntley, Mr. Frank Johnson, Mr. E. R. Niccle, Mr. W. C. Poole (all of London), Mr. James Cunningman (Glasgow) and Miss Grace Edwards (Croydon), leaving five more to be selected.

FOR RACIAL EQUALITY

Tokio, October 14.—The World Sunday-School Convention emphatically affirmed the principle of racial equality at a meeting last night, when the following resolution was adopted:

"We, the delegates to the World's Eighth Sunday-School Convention assembled in Tokio, representing thirty million officers, teachers and scholars of thirty countries, affirm the following proposition, embodying the principles of world-brotherhood, with special reference to international relationships:

"Firstly, we affirm our unshaken belief in the solidarity of the human race, and further affirm our conviction that any conception of racial or national integrity which ignores this basic fact imperils the security of the world.

AGAINST ALL DISCORD

"Secondly, we record our appreciation of every movement making for the deepening of the sense of mutual indebtedness and obligation among nations. We likewise deplore every action that makes for misunderstanding, discord and dissension.

"Thirdly, we attest our confidence in the practicability of world-brotherhood, and hold fealty to a principle of common good more cohesive than a mere similarity of customs, habits and manners.

"Fourthly, we maintain that any national or international policy which seems to discriminate in the treatment of nations and races engenders bitterness, and is subversive of the best interests of mankind and indiomical to the peace of the world.

TOLERANCE URGED

"Fifthly, we believe all national and international problems are solverable and all international difficulties adjustable, if dealt with in a spirit of dignified tolerance and noble conciliation. Christian forbearance and Christian altruism must take the place of enlightened self-interest in the settlement of all international contentions.

"Sixthly, world-brotherhaad requires an international consciousness.

"Seventhly, we call upon the nations to heed the warning given by the present world chaos, and deliberately to refrain from taking any provocative national action which would wound national honor, discount national prestige, or be of such a character as to create suspicion, resentment or revenge."

The resolution was read in both English and Japanese, after which a roar of "Ayes" recorded a unanimous vote.

BRAZIL MAY BAR EXPORTS OF GOLD

Plan Is Made To Protect Industries With Great Credit Reserve

(Reuter's Service)

New York, September 19 (by mail).—The Rio de Janeiro correspondent of the Associated Press writes:

Under a measure just introduced in the Chamber of Deputies, the Brazilian Government would be given the power to intervene as buyer or seller in commercial markets, to acquire national products and hold them for sale at an opportune time, to make loans to producers on such and to organise special credits for this purpose.

The object of the proposed measure are stated to be the defence of Brazilian production and the avoidance of the consequences of speculation, lack of transport and other causes which are keeping back the progress of national production.

To carry out the provisions of the law the measure proposes that the Government be authorised to make issues of money and to conduct internal and foreign credit operations up to $250,000,000.

Gains accruing from such operations are to be employed in the purchase for deposit in the national Treasury of all gold from Brazilian mines, the exportation of which will continue to be prohibited. In the purchase of minted or bar gold of whatever origin for the same purpose and in the amortisation of the domestic and foreign debt by securing bonds at a lower quotation.

TIENTSIN VICAR TELLS OF PLIGHT OF PEASANTRY

Deserted Children Must Be Supported For Ten Months He Reports To Bishop

Here is a communication of Father Corseh to the Bishop of Peking regarding the famine situation in the prefecture of Tientsin:

Having asked the Missionaries of the territory of the prefecture of Tientsin to let me know the condition of the population among which they live I have been able to gather the following information:

The famine is more especially prevalent in a belt which goes east of Hokienfu and runs right out to the sea. This territory comprises the sub-prefectures of Tsangchow, Yenchan, Nanpy and Kingyun.

The harvest of the previous year only gave about three tenths of the ordinary yield and this year the harvest is nil. In certain places as for instance at Tsangchow it rained during the sixth moon and the peasants profited by the occasion to sow their fields but then the draught set in and the stem of the corn hardly out of the ground dried up so that in reality the misery of the poor peasants has been increased by the loss of the grain which had been confided to the earth.

Already during the month of June last the common people had as only food a repulsive mixture of bran or millet and leaves from the trees but now even this is wanting.

FUEL IS LACKING

Furthermore, they have no combustibles so that hunger tortures them and cold threatens them; epidemics have already broken out and if help is not promptly forthcoming these people will be doomed to death. As a consequence people emigrate and try to reach more fortunate districts where they can find something to eat.

Only those enjoying good health can accomplish this voyage, in other words the old and the quite young remain.

In the sub-prefecture of Yenchang there are 450,000 inhabitants scattered over more than 800 villages while the subprefecture of Kingyun has about 250,000 inhabitants in about 400 villages.

It is reckoned that fifteen percent of all the inhabitants had emigrated. About 20 percent of the population possess some property but as they have no cash even they are as the remainder of the population in complete misery.

Their grounds are useless and owing to the absence of buyers cannot be sold, even were their properties sold they would only realise ridiculously low prices.

DESERT CHILDREN

The emigration commenced last year; those who went away entrusted their children to relatives or to neighbors. These poor little beings are now abandoned by their adopted families either because the members of such families have gone away or because they have not got enough for their own wants.

PROPOSED MEANS OF AID

To gather the children in the places where it is easiest to feed them, to gather them in groups of 15 to 30 and to give them in houses, let for the purpose, food and lodging. These groups to be placed under the supervision of the gentry of the place which should delegate for each group a school master to be in charge of the supervision and to occupy the children by teaching them.

One hundred children would require per month about the following:

Food, $300.
Salary to four teachers, $30.
Fuel, $10.

With regard to the aged a Committee should be chosen among the gentry to distribute food in the different villages; for that three to four dollars per month for each person to be assisted would be required.

TEN MONTHS REQUIRED

As far as one is able to see the help to become efficacious would have to last until the next harvest, that is over a period of ten months.

To be quick now with the intention of not to continue afterwards would be a simple waste in useless efforts as the misery during the last months of the coming winter and the coming spring will be much more terrible than even now.

It would be superfluous to add that we shall be very pleased to give every assistance as regards the distribution of whatever people may entrust to us but we insist that the gentry shall be asked to control these distributions so that they may be witness to the equitable and impartial distribution as we intend to make it.

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 12.—The King has sent messages to the Governors-General of Australia and New Zealand and the Governors of the British West Indian possessions, thanking them for the universal affection and loyal enthusiasm shown to the Prince of Wales and adding:

Premiers Of Britain And Belgium Hold Reparations Parley

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 12.—Conversations opened in London yesterday between Mr. Lloyd George and the Belgian Premier, M. Delacroix. It is understood that they are on the subject of German reparations, in connection with which Great Britain and France are discussing the method by which the Spa decisions are to be honored.

It is stated that Great Britain proposes that the amount of the reparations should be determined by a body of experts, specially appointed by the Governments concerned, including Germany, while France urges that the determining body should be chosen from the Reparations Commission.

According to well-informed French newspapers, M. Delacroix has now suggested that both the Reparations Commission and the Ministers of Finance of the countries concerned shall meet at Brussels shortly and issue a joint report with regard to the indemnity.

"DINNY" DOYLE BRINGS 1920 FOOTBALL CALENDAR FOR AMERICAN DEVOTEES

Many Big Games Scheduled In States For Tomorrow Afternoon—Princeton Has Hard Schedule—Thanksgiving Day No Longer Popular As Wind-up Of Season

By Dudley Burrows

Hurrah for "Dinny!"

While he (meaning Misther Diyle, lately retoorned from the Shtates) was philanderin' with th' festive orange phosphate in th' speed-annihilatin' metropolis of Danvers, Mass., he did not neglect to slip into the village bookstore and abstract therefrom—by fair means or foul—a copy of Mr. Spalding's official guide for 1920, nor to convey it safely to the perspiring Sports Editor, via the good ship Venezuela.

Thanks to Misther Diyle and his thoughtfulness we are enabled this morning to give to the football fanatics cloistered within these walls, the following interesting facts regarding the big games to be played on American gridirons this fall:

Tomorrow, for example, we find that Yale and Boston College meet in a preliminary classic at New Haven; Harvard will try conclusions with Williams, at Cambridge; Princeton tackles Washington and Lee, at Princeton; Pennsylvania has a date with Lafayette, in Philadelphia; and Columbia meets Amherst on South Field, New York.

In the western section of the country we find that California is due to play Nevada, at Berkeley; Illinois meets Iowa at Urbana; Minnesota tangles with Indiana at Minneapolis; and Purdue hooks up with Ohio State at Columbus, O.

In the South we find Vanderbilt stacked up against Georgia-Technical at Nashville; Tulane playing Rice Inst., in New Orleans; Texas opposed to Oklahoma at Dallas.

Of lesser importance, save to those whose Alma Mater one of the colleges may happen to be are the following, all scheduled for tomorrow:

Brown vs. Colgate, at Providence; Cornell vs. Union, at Ithaca; Dartmouth vs. Holy Cross, at Hanover; Geneva vs. W. and J. at Beaver Falls; Lehigh vs. Rochester, at Bethlehem; Penn State vs. North Carolina, at Bellefonte; and the Naval Academy vs. Bucknell, at Annapolis.

One week from tomorrow some more important games take place. Yale meets West Virginia, Harvard plays Center College (Kentucky), Princeton meets the midshipmen and Penn is due to tangle with Virginia Military. Lehigh plays W. and J. at Washington; Dartmouth opposes Syracuse; Cornell and Colgate Clash; Ohio State meets Wisconsin; Chicago and Iowa play at Chicago; California tangles with Utah.

On the 30th Yale plays Colgate; Harvard plays Virginia; Princeton plays West Virginia. Penn meets Penn State; Pittsburgh tangles with Lafayette; Lehigh opposes Carnegie Tech; Cornell meets Rutgers and Illinois meets Minnesota.

November 6 finds Yale playing Brown; Harvard opposing Princeton; and Penn playing Pittsburgh. On the same day Chicago meets Illinois; Iowa meets Northwestern; and Minnesota plays Wisconsin. California plays Washington State and Georgia Tech plays Clemson.

The 13th of next month sees Harvard and Brown fighting it out; Yale opposing Princeton; Penn playing Dartmouth; and W. and J. opposed to Pittsburgh.

Harvard and Yale meet on November 20, in the east, while California and Standford are fighting for honors in the west. On November 27 (Saturday) the Army and Navy will clash at the Polo Grounds.

Sports Correspondence

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—I solicit the favor o. your columns for suggesting loca opinion on the possibility of an open golf championship, and the betterment of week-end condition for play on the Race Course.

Besides the Club events a Kiangwan and Hungjao creating i. doubt as to the better player, I opine there are visitors (including naval officers) who may wrest the premier honor from the clul members if given the opportunity of meeting them.

Again, a certain member a Kiangwan would be debarred from competing in the club event for ex-professionalism. A recent performance of his undoubtedly ranks him as a probable future loca champion were he allowed to compete, and I've no doubt local golfing interest would be keen in the finals of an open event where accurate and powerful play would be witnessed.

Such an open event would entice good golfers from other posts, and probably Hankow Hongkong, Weihaiwei and similar ports would contribute their quot of individual competitors and give the competition the nature o an Open Championship for North China, even all China for that matter.

Could something not be done to better present conditions here by the powers-that-be? Matters have been going from bad to worse the last few weeks.

A notice-board on the first tee plainly intimates (inter alia) permission is necessary for play by non-members. What proportion of present week-enders have such permission? They come along with friends who have as much knowledge of the rules, etiquett or the game, as themselves; make up three and four ball games (expressly forbidden) and which may or may not include one of the erstwhile fair sex in high-heeled French shoes, and—makee learn pidgin.

If the Golf Club has not express authority for mending such matters at present could some power that-be do the necessary? A very few weeks more and golf at the Race Course will be just damnable. I see new faces every week-end on the course.

Yours truly,
"Golf—S. O. S."

REPORT SAYS CARPENTIER IS "KAYO" WINNER

Unconfirmed Rumor That French Champion Stops Levinsky

An unconfirmed report was circulated in Shanghai yesterday afternoon, to the effect that Georges Carpentier, making his first in-ring appearance in America on Wednesday afternoon, in New York City, had knocked out Battling Levinsky, the light-heavyweight champion of the world.

It is somewhat difficult to believe this report, as Levinsky has had a long ring career, during which he was never knocked out. If Carpentier has actually turned the trick his prospective match with Jack Dempsey, for the heavyweight championship of the world, will indeed be worth going to see.

The Carpentier-Dempsey match, by the way, is now reported to be in the wind for the month of December, "Tex" Rickard being reported to have signed the boxers for a 15-round go in Madison Garden.

All efforts to confirm the report of the outcome of the Carpentier-Levinsky bout were unsuccessful.

POTT TO MEET TANAKA IN TENNIS FINALS SATURDAY

By "Forehand"

It is a great pleasure to announce that Mr. W. S. A. ("Bill") Pott has sufficiently recovered from his injury of eight days ago to justify his appearance on the courts of the Shanghai Country Club tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 3:15 o'clock, against Mr. J. Tanaka in the Championship Round of the 1920 singles, S.L.T.A.

Mr. Pott, in his semi-final s match with Mr. W. P. Roberts, sustained a severe wrench of his right knee, which he had been having treated all summer. This seems to have yielded rapidly to treatment and tennis devotees are promised a fine exhibition tomorrow afternoon The public is invited to attend the match.

INTERPORTERS TO PLAY "REST" TOMORROW P.M.

Strong Trial Team Will Face Cricket Representatives On S.C.C. Grounds

BY DOMINO

Tomorrow, beginning at 11 a.m., the cricket team that is to represent Shanghai at Hongkong in November will play a team picked from the rest of the local cricketers. The selection committee has made excellent choices and there is not a weak member in the team.

It is a pity that such fine players like Dr. O'Hara, Billings and Hayward cannot go South, but work must ever come before play and so they must stay at home and hope that those who stand in their places will worthily carry the Shanghai flag to victory.

The game on Saturday will undoubtedly be full of thrills and cricket enthusiasts can look forward to seeing one of the best games of the season.

The following are the line—ups:

Interport Team.—H. W. Allison, C. Brock, W. C. G. Clifford, R. Grimshaw, D. W. Leach, Dr. H. H. Morris, (Capt.), H. B. Ollerdessen, A. E. Piercey, Rev. C. E. Spencer, F. L. Wainwright, T. W. R. Wilson.

The Rest.—R. C. Barnes, C. H. Billings (Capt.), B. W. Lutholt, J. Harder, A. W. Lanning, A. H. Hayward, V. H. Lanning, A. H. Leslie, W. G. R. Lanning, A. H. Muriel, Dr. W. E. O'Hara, J. M. Pearson, J. Robertson.

BRITISH GOLF EXPERT PRAISES AMERICANS—SAYS GAME IMPROVES

Abe Mitchell Compliments Ray On Victory In States, But Urges England To Have An Eye On Yankee Golfers

By Abe Mitchell

By winning the American open championship, Ted Ray has gained a really great victory, for it shows us that at golf, if not in other sports and pastimes, we can still hold our own against the strongest rivals. But it should be realised that, though Harry Vardon was second, only one stroke behind, this place was shared by three others; who are all, I fancy, truly American players.

The whole story of the championship suggests that, in the next few years, we shall see some wonderful golfers coming across to play for our championships.

When Barnes was here he told me that we should soon be surprised by the ability of the "home-breds," as he called them, and his remarks are now seen in their true light; for it is quite evident that both Ray and Vardon had to play fine golf to retain anything like a leading position in the early stages of the play.

REPECT AMERICANS

Because Ray has won this year and also because Hagen and Barnes failed to win our cup, are no reasons why we should not respect the play of the American golfer; for when Chick Evans was here we saw something in the style of that player which was bound to be reproduced with effect in someone younger.

The American is nothing if not practical; and if practice can make a golfer we may be sure that some fine day we shall see a man who will play round in an almost faultless fashion.

Chick Evans was only three strokes more than Ray, surely a great position for an amateur in which has been described as "the finest championship that has ever taken place in America." That makes Ray's win all the more pleasing to us; but it tells us, also what a very near thing the victory was, and no one is more fitted to stand the strain than 'Ted,' as he is known to his brother professionals.

Big and genial, Ted takes all the hard and the kind kicks of the game in the proper spirit and never complains about his hard luck. He realises that golf is out to beat you if it can, and he strives in the biggest-hearted way to overcome its many difficulties. He enjoys the game, too, and is never happier than when playing a kind of scratch match with some of his members at Oxhey.

VARDON WAS HERO

Ray has done golf a very great service in this country; but surely the hero of the meeting is Harry Vardon. With one round to play he held the lead, by one stroke. That was a great piece of work. When we remember that he won this same American championship twenty years ago, it says wonders for his greatness as a golfer.

It shows us younger players that there is something more in Vardon's golf than we think, for it is quite evident that he rose to the occasion in the grandest possible manner.

One can see him driving shot after shot down the middle; and, when the long approach came to be played, there he had all the best of the play; for in that shot I think there is really no one to compare with Vardon.

I read of his missing putts, but one can well understand the strain under which he was playing, especially as he knew only too well the value of all those which once gone seem never to come back.

Harry is now over fifty years of age. Surely there is no finer tribute to his game than this American performance. Only those who play in these big meetings readise the terrible mental strain which always threatens to overpower even the strongest.

A GREAT PUTTER

Ray's putting seems to have bordered on the sensational, for he holed some very long ones, and at the right time. To do this is probably the secret of success in a stroke event, though some say that if you play your bad shots at the correct hole, then is the time you win.

But a good shot at just the right time will save a lot of worry, and probably mean all the difference to the score. Did not Sandy Herd lose his chance at Deal when he played a drive that was not quite a good one? There were many holes at Deal where one could almost afford to take a little license in hitting the tee shot, and where a half-missed one would not have meant a great deal. It was Herd's misfortune that his half-bad shot was to the wrong hole.

Ray appeared to hole his putts just when they were most wanted. He is a beautiful putter, perhaps the best of all in the professional ranks. He has a fine touch and the way he coaxes the ball up to the hole is a delight. For such a big man his short game is splendid; and it is this, rather than his driving, which makes him such a deadly opponent.

The only time I know of Ray discarding his aluminium putter was at Bramshot this summer, when he appeared with an old rusty one which he used very well. But when the championship came round, out came his trusty aluminium club again. Some try new drivers just before a meeting, but most players stick to their favorite putter, even when it has apparently lost its cunning. Ray is no exception here, and even his wooden clubs are all old friends.

Military Pact To Stand, Savs Tokio

AMERICAN NIGHT AT TOWN HALL

Sailors To Be Entertained By Woman's Club And Navy Y.M.C.A.

Tonight is to be American Night at the Town Hall. There will be music and dancing, home-made cakes and fruit punch, for nearly a thousand of the men from the American flagship and other men-of-war now in port.

The American Women's Club assisted by the Navy Y.M.C.A., are going to see to it that our navy boys have at least one evening of unalloyed happiness while they are in Shanghai.

NAVY BAND TO PLAY

Music will be furnished by the Admiral's band, and the dancing, —well, it is hoped that not only every member of the Women's Club will be there but that every other American lady in Shanghai will come and join in the dancing. It will take quite a few ladies to furnish partners for six or eight hundred lads!

Where ladies have other engagments, it is hoped that they will come for either the early or latter part of the evening's program; which is to commence at seven o'clock and last until eleven. Husbands and escorts will be welcome, but will be expected to content themselves with seats in the gallery or on the side-lines.

The committee and executives of the American Women's Club, which met both yesterday and the day before at the call of the President, Mrs. Charles S. Lobingier, have been busy with preparations for this big affair. Two hundred real home-made cakes have been pledged, and a subscription list, to cover the expenses of renting the Town Hall and other incidentals, is going the rounds.

SPECIAL INVITATIONS

If the latter fails to reach anyone who is desirous of contributing to the success of the evening, they are requested to remit to Mr. W. R. Durbin at the Navy Y.M.C.A., 6 Avenue Edward VII. Special invitations have also been sent to the Admiral and his Staff and the Officers of all the American ships in port.

The following ladies have consented to act as hostesses for the occasion:

Mrs. Charles S. Lobingier, Mrs. M. F. Perkins, Mrs. W. H. Lunt, Mrs. F. R. Sites, Mrs. C. E. Crane, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. T. E. Doremus, Mrs. C. W. Atkinson, Mrs. C. P. Holcomb, Mrs. W. A. B. Nichols, Dr. Annie Fearn, Mrs. W. W. Lockwood, Mrs. A. C. Davis, Mrs. R. W. Squires, Mrs. Lunkley, Mrs. H. B. Lane, Mrs. W. G. Hiltner, Mrs. H. A. Wilbur, and Mrs. Cavanagh.

The Naughty Wife

"The Naughty Wife" is as funny a comedy as the playgoer can expect. The plot is built upon a wife who fancies she does not love the husband, whom she does not think loves her. She finds a lap dog. The species is not unlike what has been found in Shanghai of late years.

The wife wants to get a little excitement, and so runs away with the other man. The husband, like the good fellow he is, does his best to make the run-away couple comfy. He even places his bungalow at their disposal, and then goes further and arrives there early enough to meet them with a nice lively fire; supper for two, and all the rooms well warmed. Now what can a man do more?

At the Lyceum Theater a full house laughed from beginning to end. I fancy that the majority revelled in the play. Every, especially naughty line was accepted with gusto. When hubby intercepted what might have happened, the house laughed. When the other man found the lawful wife in the arms of the lawful husband, the house laughed again, even if it was disappointed. In fact the whole play was built upon a very naughty theme, and the doings of a wife who wanted to be naughty, but was much too nice to carry her wishes to a conclusion.

A comedy like this needs fine acting. Yes, the play was fine. It was excellently written. Sit around with the book of the words in your hand, and read aloud with a crowd of friends. I tell you that most of the lines will call for a laugh.

Playgoer, this only leads up to the fact that as far as one person was concerned the acting was not up to either the usual standard, or to what the play called for. On two occasions I have seen Oliver Twiss, and have placed him in the first catagory of actors. The part of "Hilary Farrington' does not suit him. He ought to give the audience the impression that he is simply crazy over a delightful little wife. What follows would be much more effective if this was the case. Some how or other, I never got this impression. I thought he was much too casual throughout. I know that he ought to be casual as far as the principals in the play were concerned, but it is up to him to get the sympathy of the house, by letting them see that he is playing a part, and a very clever part at that. Mr. Twiss is a good actor, and at times last night showed his value, but his portrayal of "Hilary" cannot be placed in his gallery of successes.

Miss Niquai Lewis was good in the part of "Eloise Farrington" and she was consistent throughout, so much so that in so light a comedy she was convincing. She is undoubtedly an actress of ability. "The part of "Darrell McKnight" calls for fine interpretation. It was given to Mr. Clive Woods to portray. If one player calls for especial mention, then it is Mr. Clive Woods. I know that he did not have the star part, but he made "Hilary" stand out so prominently that the rest of the cast had to "Follow on." Miss Violet Blyth Pratt gave quite a good study of "Nora Gail." She had the voice and presence to carry her to success.

Tonight:" The Naughty Wife." It is funny. It is naughty. It is amusing.

If you haven't yet tried Cutex, send for the trial set today. See how noticeably better your nails look after their first Cutex manicure!

Stains and discolorations disappear as if by magic the moment you apply Cutex Nail White underneath the nails.

A lasting, brilliant gloss or a soft transparent finish, just as you prefer, you can get with Cutex Nail Polish.

"So smooth does Cutex leave the skin at the base of the nails, I never think of allowing my cuticle to be cut."
Geraldine Farrar

How to keep your nails looking freshly manicured all the time

YOUR nails look unbelievably lovely after their Cutex manicure! They are so shapely, so exquisitely groomed; the cuticle edge at their base is as smooth, firm and even as if they had just had a professional manicure. You are delighted with their appearance!

Keep them looking lovely always!

Spasmodic attention won't do it—having your nails manicured occasionally may only make the cuticle look worse, in the long run. But with a bottle of Cutex at hand, it is so easy to keep your cuticle always smooth and firm.

So little trouble, too

Once or twice a week, according to the rapidity with which your cuticle grows, dip the end of an orange stick, wrapped with absorbent cotton, into your bottle of Cutex and work it gently around the base of each nail, gently pressing back the cuticle. Carefully rinse the fingers in clear water, pressing back the cuticle as you dry your hands.

Thousands and thousands of women would tell you that in half the time it takes for the ordinary manicure, they can, with Cutex, keep their nails always in noticeably lovely condition. Use Cutex regularly, and you, too, will find that it does away entirely with the cuticle cutting and trimming that ruin the appearance of your nails.

Get a bottle today at any drug or department store.

Cutex, the cuticle remover, comes in 70c and $1.10 bottles. Cutex Nail White and Nail Polish are also 70c.

Send today for the complete manicure set shown below

If you have never given your nails a Cutex manicure, send today for this complete Cutex manicure set and see for yourself how attractive your nails can be made to look.

The set contains everything necessary for several complete manicures!

Still Seventeen Wars

BY COLONEL FITZHUGH LEE MINNIGERODE

FOR nearly two years it has been assumed that the World War was over. Perhaps it is, if the term "World War" is applied to the conflict between the Allies and the Central Empires, which ended with the armistice. If, however, the term "World War" can rightly be applied to conditions of war which at present exist in many places throughout the world as a direct result of the great conflict, it is not over, nor is the end in sight.

I have spread out before me a map of the world. This map has been carefully studied for the purpose of determining the number of wars at present in progress, the conflicting nations, peoples or interests and the location of each. Each sphere of conflict has been marked, and the map might readily be compared to a volcanic island containing seventeen volcanoes, each volcano representing a war. The volcanoes are in varying degrees of activity. Some are apparently extinct or at least dormant; some are active, ever threatening to burst forth in eruption at any time with the full accompaniment of fire and quake and avalanche and the utter misery that ensues; others are in eruption and have been for varying periods of time.

The list follows:

1. United States vs. Germany.
2. United States vs. Austria-Hungary.
3. Mexico. Revolution.
4. Bolivia. Revolution.
5. Ireland. Sinn Fein Revolution.
6. British vs. Turkish Nationalists and Arabs in Mesopotamia.
7. French vs. Turkish Nationalists.
8. Hungary vs. Rumania.
9. Polish-Bolsheviki War.
10. Wrangel-Bolsheviki War.
11. Greeks vs. Turkish Nationalists.
12. Egypt. Revolution.
13. Turkish vs. Armenians.
14. Bolsheviki-Persian war.
15. Bolsheviki-Japanese war.
16. Korean civil war.
17. China civil war.

Beginning at home. The United States is still technically at war with Germany and with Austria-Hungary. These wars belong in the dormant class for the very sufficient reason that the conclusion of a treaty of peace is a matter of time only and there is slight chance of a resumption of hostilities between the United States and Germany and the United States and Austria-Hungary as distinct from a general European war. Because this contingency is so remote or seems so at the present time, it is hardly fair to count these wars—which have their being on paper only—in the same category as active ones. The fact remains, however, that a state of war between the United States and these two Central Powers technically exists until peace is a concluded fact.

There are two other volcanoes in the Western Hemisphere which should be classified as belonging to the active group, though not at present in full eruption. A revolution is in progress in Bolivia that may result in the overturning of the present Government. So accustomed, almost calloused, to the kaleidoscopic changes in South and Central American republics have we become that a mere little revolution or two there awakens no interest. Much greater concern will be manifested in "Babe" Ruth's fiftieth home run than could possibly be stirred up over Bolivia's present difficulties.

The Mexican rumpus is a very different thing. The stage has been reached when lexicographers consider the word Mexico synonymous with revolution. Since the overthrow of the Carranza regime and the assassination of its chief a fair advance along the road toward stability has been made, but this advance may be halted at any time and a return to peon fighting, bull fighting, banditry and general bloodletting supersede it. Villa is quiescent today, but what about tomorrow? Can this leopard change his spots overnight?

In Lower California the little dollarmarked dominion of Esteban Cantu is threatening "to be or not to be," depending entirely upon whether Esteban is feeling grouchy or convivial. Lower California has been a sinecure for Cantu, owing, of course, to the American thirst and American love of chance, which have kept a stream of gold pouring across the California boundary into Tia Juana and the coffers of this pro-American. Late information is to the effect that an agreement has been reached between Cantu and the Mexican central Government, but any attempt to oust Cantu and keep him ousted is going to start something.

The Mexican volcano is very much awake and may be in eruption from several craters within a very short time.

Turning now to the Old World the conclusion is inevitably reached that it approaches more nearly one large volcano than thirteen small ones. There are actually, however, this unlucky number of wars now being conducted (or misconducted) in that hemisphere, to say nothing of a few little personally supervised fracases like d'Annunzio's in Fiume. Little prospect appears that an immediate reduction in the number of wars in full swing in the Old World will take place—in fact the cables of the last few days announce the birth of another anti-Bolshevist movement in Siberia. This latest addition may develop into a real opposition to the Soviets and receive the support of the Japanese. If this should be the case it would add to the long list.

In some instances—listed above as a war—a technical state of war may not exist. There may be no recognised government behind the activity—as is the case of Ireland—but the crux of war is that certain interests and ideals clash, that peoples are actually fighting to preserve or establish these interests and ideals and that blood is being shed. It is not essential to the existence of a state of war that armies be organised along established lines or that tactical units be employed in the furtherance of attaining the desired end.

The Egyptian situation has become much clarified as a result of the work of the commission headed by Lord Milner, and from present indications this will be the first war to be dropped from the list.

It will be noted that four wars are the direct result of the activities of the Turks. Britain, France, Greece and Armenia are all engaged with the Turkish Nationalists in different fields. In the case of the British the Turks are receiving considerable assistance from the Arabs. The Turkish Nationalists are apparently making a great effort to meet the Bolshevist forces that were advancing from the north, but so far this movement has been checked. With four distinct nations at war with the Turkish Nationalists—each conducting its own campaign—it is believed that greater success would attend their efforts if a greater degree of co-operation were inaugurated. A simultaneous offensive by the four would result in keeping all the available Nationalist forces occupied, and the moral effect—if Turkey has ever been susceptible to moral influences—would be worth something.

The Soviets, like the Turks, are fighting four distinct and separate enemies. Poland in the west, General Wrangel and the Persians in the south and the Japanese plus the new anti-Bolshevist movement in the east. Reports all indicate that things are going decidedly against the Bolsheviki on all fronts. From a military standpoint the Bolsheviki possess that inestimable advantage of interior lines, but the distances between fronts is so great and means of communication so impaired that this military asset is assumed rather than real. Until recently the Bolsheviki were conducting offensives against Poland and Persia. In the latter one they were attempting to form a junction with the Turkish Nationalist Army. These offensives have failed signally, and resulted in increased activity on the part of General Wrangel in the south and the anti-Bolshevist uprisings in Siberia.

The desultory fighting that has been taking place between Hungary and Rumania—practically ever since the armistice—has slackened, but the explosive is still present and needs but slight urge to break out anew.

The civil war in South China and the Korean civil war complete the quota. It is the rankest kind of guesswork to even approximate the conditions within these spheres of military activity, but there is war, recognised as such, and that is enough.

Finally, there is so much unrest, so much needed to put the world back on its feet; so much malice and hatred stored up in the hearts of so many peoples, that he must be indeed an optimist who sees the world again on a smooth highway with all six cylinders working.

LEGEND OF THE PLUM BLOSSOM TREE

(From The Chinese)

To Lo-Fou on a Pilgrimage he went,
Sad, and the way was long;
The forest pines a restful harbor lent,
Sadness gave to song.

* * *

When from the Nowhere, beautiful to see,
A woman came and smiled;
She breathed the fragrance of the Plum Blossom Tree,
Her look was undefiled.

* * *

The music of her voice made laughter weep;
The evening zephys sighed.
He listened—listened into sleep.
The woman left. Day died!

* * *

The sun arose to chase away the Dark,
The moon awoke to Light;
And then the man's and woman's love to mark,
The Tree shed petals white.

* * *

MY CHINESE VASE

(From The Chinese)

It stands—a delight to the eyes!
Its story hidden, save to the wise.
A message it brings from the Far Away,
Of Scholars, of Seers, of a lost Cathay;
Its story is wrapt in an Orient veil;
Only to Love will it tell its tale.
It stands—a delight to the eyes!
Its story hidden, save to the wise.

* * *

ANOTHER GROWL

Several motorists complain of the present size of those big express motor trucks that we so often see now-a-day on the roads.

There is some talk of having the world widened.

* * *

WHO'S LOONY NOW?

Lunacy, says an official report, is on the increase in Ireland.

* * *

WE RELUCTANTLY BEG TO DIFFER

A woman whose husband has turned her out seven times and beaten her eleven times in two weeks stated that her husband did not love her.

* * *

A NOVEL PLAN

Owing to the serious obstruction to traffic, caused by the ever-increasing number of brokers' traps and motors that daily congregate outside the temporary offices, in Szechuen Road, of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, a movement is on foot whereby those of us who want money will only need to telephone the amount.

* * *

IN THE YEAR 1950

Dr. Chatley gave the Quest Society an idea of what the world would be like in 1950. But he is not our only prophet. Here are a few items gathered from the press in 1950.

At the weekly meeting of the Council Mr. Jess Field stated that now most of the municipal roads had been repaired, there would be little value in them, as most of the Taipans flew to their offices.

Please note that only Taipans can now live in Shanghai owing to the increased cost of living and the decreased number of dwellings.

* * *

NEWS BREVITIES

We hear on excellent authority that the New Municipal Buildings will be really finished early in 1921. It is quite likely that the President of the League of Nations will formally open the edifice, if the Council can obtain a berth for him and pay the increased fare.

* * *

Lord Lipton yesterday informed a contemporary that, given a good wind, he has every confidence of Shamrock XIII winning.

* * *

Discussing the later stages of the Irish Home Rule Bill, Mr. Lloyd George moved that the Bill be referred back to The Daily Mail.

* * *

Viscount Bottomley, who formerly ruled the British Empire as "John Bull," has accepted the presidency of South China. Mr. Hashimoto still commands the Northern Provinces.—Reutergram.

* * *

At a meeting of the Quest Society last evening an interesting discussion took place on the subject "where shall we all be in the year 2,000?"

The meeting was stormy and remarks hurled across the room showed clearly that there was no unanimity as to the destination.

* * *

POLITICAL POINTS

"And whom did you vote for, Miss Soshy?"

"Well, you see, the Republican was simply stunningly good-looking. But the Democrat had always been perfectly splendid to his family, so I marked both closed my eyes, shuffled them, put one in the box and tore up the other. Nothing could be fairer than that."—Life.

The Trend Of Aviation

BY HAROLD WENGLER

The first stage of one of the most ambitious and most thoroughly executed enterprises standing to the credit of the Army Air Service has been completed. The arrival of the four army airplanes in Nome, Alaska, just fifty-six flying hours after they took off at Mineola, L. I., is more than an adventure; it is a definite epoch in the history of the conquest of the air, and can be placed beside the transatlantic, the London-Australia, the trans-Africa and the Rome-Tokio flights.

That the flight to Alaska, with its picturesque aspects deserves to stand beside other accomplishments, is attested by the terrain over which the long journey was made. It was made, furthermore, under conditions far less auspicious than previous enterprises. For a year before the South African plane made its notable flight from Cairo to Capetown early this year, surveying parties had worked throughout the route in Africa, planning landing fields, making supply and replacement depots, and in other ways making the land factor as safe as possible. There were no landing fields prepared for the squadron which Capt. Street led to Nome. After leaving Edmonton, Can., the planes flew across mountain chains, great wooded areas, and glaciers. The only landing fields were those nature made: sand bars on occasional rivers crossed. And no flyer who could avoid it would land on a sand bar.

BRITISH AIR "PULLMANS"

While even British aviation circles have ceased declaring that the British airplanes are ascendant over the rest of the international field, British manufacturers have taken the development of interior accommodation of large passenger ships to a degree still unattained in this country.

Notable in the refinement of detail in large airplanes is the British Bristol airplane, known as the Pullman type. This machine, which represents the latest perfection in interior design, has not only the ordinary saloon compartment, where expansive wicker chairs are placed beside wide windows, comparing for head room and space with a large yacht, but also contains a sleeping compartment, with berths which fold up when not in use, but which are even more commodious than the Pullman train berths.

This is a far cry from aerial transport during the war. Then the large planes were built with a view to how many tons of bombs they could carry. The post-war development has done away with that, and has substituted accommodations which are every inch as luxurious as are encountered in travelling by train de luxe or yacht.

The machine decribed—the Bristol giant triplane, will in all probability ply between London and Paris, or London and one of the other continental termini.

To get a conception of what such a development will mean to commuting, one can compare the present time of travel between, say, New York and San Francisco. By train it is a three-day trip, and in summer a highly unpleasant one, by the way.

With the inception of an aerial transport fleet of ships similar to the Bristol machine just described, which have a speed of 134 miles an hour, the flight can be made in the time which it now takes to go half the distance—from Chicago to New York—by the fastest train, which takes twenty hours.

FEW DOUBTERS

Although nowadays there are few people who take a doubting attitude toward aviation, there is still an enormous number of people who regard flying as a dangerous affair, only participated in by daredevils and unmarried men who have none financially dependent on them. It is still a "feat." One puts on goggles, a tremendous furlined coat, electrically heated, as likely as not, gloves an inch thick, fleece lined shoes, and in some cases oxygen breathing apparati. Taking one's life in one's hand, one climbs into a cockpit with a trap door in the bottom, through which one is likely to fall, if not careful. heaven only knows how many thousands of feet. Before going aloft one signs his will and leaves any last messages to dear relatives and friends which sentiment demands.

Contrasted with that still largely obtaining view, it might be opportune to inquire into how one really travels by airplane, say between London and Paris. Over 50,000 civilians have travelled this route in the last couple of years.

You take an automobile or bus to the flying field from London, with your overcoat over your arm and your handbag in one hand and a bag of golf clubs, as like as not. The car lands you at the flying field, when your bags are carried out to the plane, a la red cap in Grand Central. Or you can carry them yourself. You bags are put in the baggage compartment and the door into the saloon is opened. You do not have to crawl or climb in. You step in, as you would into your automobile. There is a large upholstered wicker chair reserved for you. You walk, without stooping, along a carpeted aisle to it, and have plenty of leg room when you sit down—more, in fact, than in the most generous orchestra seats at a theater. There are curtains at the windows which can be drawn closed if the sunlight is annoying. There is a rack above for your hat and coat and for your small packages.

THE CABIN

As the cabin, or saloon, is completely enclosed, the noise of the motors, a low roar, is muffled so that it is not annoying to the ear. The pilot, who is off by himself, like the engineer on a train, opens the throttle and the plane jogs with an accelerated motion over the field. You will in all probability not know when the plane leaves the ground unless you watch carefully.

The buildings slowly dwarf to the size of toys and the roads become white ribbons. You notice how slowly you seem to be going—and as like as not comment in an ordinary tone of voice to your neighbor. Yet, though the world seems to pass so slowly beneath you, and though you have none of the sensations of swift motion, you are going faster than a racing motor car—over 100, and usually over 110 miles an hour.

When more people realise the actual nature of travel by air, there will be a mushroom growth of aerial transportation lines, but not before. The inherent prejudice entertained by most people to leaving terra firma is the greatest obstacle to the great transportation development made possible by the airplane.

COMING DEVELOPMENT

It is possible that there will have to be a considerable development of frieght carrying by air before large passenger transportation lines come into being. The West and the South have already taken far larger strides in aerial freight than the East. This is partly attributable to the fact that the average distances are longer, and here are more opportunities for landing in the plains. It is mainly attributable, however, to a larger measure of progressiveness. The possibilities of expeditious handling of freight and merchandise have been looked in to with keen business judgment.

There is another reason why the South, particularly Texas, should have a larger measure of confidence in flying, and it is the same reason that accounts for the rapid development in England, Germany and France. Texas all through the American participation in the war had seen people fly. This psychological factor is one which those who have been in touch with aeronautics abroad cannot help but appreciate. When people are accustomed to seeing other people fly, they lose their own reluctance to trust themselves in the air.

In France and in Germany the peasant ploughing his field, as like as not behind a steil plough built in Illinois or Indiana, does not even grant a passing airplane time enough to look overhead. If the plane lands in his field his imperturbability is only affected to the extent of rapidly making a mental calculation of how much damages he can charge—and get away with. The airplane is not a phenomenon to him.

NAVAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The navy has announced that forty-eight surplus planes, some of them flying boats, are to be sold at fixed prices. In this announcement there is, first, a lot of thirty MF-boats, which are pusher biplanes, built at the Curtiss Engineering Corporation at Garden City. They are equipped with Curtiss OXX-6 100 horsepower motors, and are improved and modified F-boats. They are located at the Naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia. They are new and unused, and never been removed from their original crates. The Navy is asking $3,000 apiece for them.

Another lot of planes offered by the navy should prove exceedingly attractive to flyers who are interested in exhibition work. This lot consists of nine single-seater Standard Scout machines, equipped with 90 horse power Le Rhone motors. They are selling at $1,000 each. These from the Aircraft Production Bureau cost $7,867 apiece. They are located at Paris Island, S. C., and Hampton Roads, Va.

Beatty Calls British Navy Sea Roads Police

BY EARL BEATTY, O.M., G.V.O.

London, Aug. 16.—On the surface of things it would appear as though the dangers and troubles of the late war were to be put behind us and that there is in front of us the immediate prospect of renewed prosperity. I hope and trust that this may be so, but it is well to utter a word of warning, lest in the reaction which is natural after the great war strain we may be induced to believe that such dangers as were successfully surmounted in the past are not likely to recur in the near future, or if they recur they will be surmounted in the old familiar extemporised fashion of the past.

Such a war as we have experienced has not been undergone and won without leaving behind weakness and after effects which it would be well to note and to provide for in the future. The British Empire before the war was undoubtedly in a position of preeminence among the world Powers. Today the position of the empire is incomparably more powerful than it was then, and it wields an influence and power which can truly be said to be unchallenged and indisputable. Were it not for the British Empire, moreover, all that remains of civilisation, law, religion and security of life and property would have been systematically and utterly destroyed. It is undoubtedly a fact that nations, like individuals, which rise by their talents and energy into positions of preeminence arouse the jealousies, however unmerited, of their less prosperous or less fortunate neighbors. The position, therefore, of our country is such that while it is necessary for us to recoup our strength, at the same time we must be prepared not only to defend ourselves from external aggression but also to assist our friends who are in less fortunate circumstances. For ourselves the Royal Navy suffices, and history justifies its upkeep on a scale commensurate with the empire's position in the council of nations.

REDUCTION IS UNWISE

To those who would advocate further reduction beyond the present bare minimum on the ground of economy and because there is no enemy in sight I would repeat the fable of the fox who came across an old boar, who having successfully demolished his enemy in battle, was sharpening his tusk against a tree.

Said the fox:

"Why do you expend your remaining energy when you have no enemy in sight?"

The boar replied:

"When the enemy is in sight it is a time to think of other things."

And so it is with the navy. We cannot afford to let our tusks get blunt. We menace nobody. In the history of England upon the seas the navy has been a weapon of peace as well as of war. The navy is an assurance that the empire continues to exist. It is the policeman of the sea roads which connect the empire abroad with the heart of the empire. As policemen are required in municipal life, not as men of war but as men of peace, so the navy is required in the imperial life of the empire, not as a man of war but as a man of peace.

Today there are many problems which confront us. My particular problem, by virtue of my office as First Sea Lord, is connected with the naval side. It is not easy. We are told on one hand that the country is exhausted financially; that economy is essential; that armaments and sea forces should be cut to the lowest possible limit to meet the altered condition of things. That we have done. The navy today has in commission a reserve minimum compatible with the safety of the empire. And there is no man or woman in the empire who would require us to reduce our forces below that which we esteem to be safe.

STATEMENT OF POLICY

When the Frist Lord of the Admiralty issued a statement to Parliament on the subject of naval estimates it was accompanied by a statement of naval policy. Previous to that the navy had been accused, not once, but many times, of indefinitely saying what its policy was; that the navy was lying in ambush behind the fallacy that it was a great silent service; and some were unkind enough to say that the navy was silent because it had nothing to say.

In the statement referred to we have told the world, and the British Empire in particular, what is at the back of our minds and what we are aiming at. Unfortunately the statement in question is long and cannot be published at full length in the press but it can be purchased for a penny. It shows that the policy as regards construction has been to investigate all problems of war, to co-ordinate them, improve our scientific methods and all the technical requirements of a great service, so that when the time comes—as it must—for us to put these lessons to useful purpose they will be applied with wisdom and understanding.

There are some people who have fantastic ideas in their winds and who cannot understand why we are not constructing big ships which disappear under the sea one moment and soar up into the clouds the next. If these people would read the statement referred to they would have their answer.

They would see that the best brains in the service are being devoted to maintaining the British navy in such a condition that it will continue to form the principal bulwark of the British Empire against aggression.

Energy May Have Independent Existence, Scientist Tells Naval Man, But We Know Of It Only In Connection With Matter

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"Please answer these questions: (1) Cannot energy exist without connection with matter? (2) is energy capable of identification; i. e., can a particular portion be identified? (3) Can it not be traced through its transformations? (4) Has it individual existence? (5) Is the absolute value of the energy of a body known, or is it estimated relatively?—Edwin Smith, U. S. N."

To begin with, one must have a clear idea of the meaining of the definition of energy which is given in the text books. They say it is "the capacity to do work," or it is "accumulated mechanical work." It is, then, a condition rather than a thing. Its various "forms" are not shapes that it takes, but ways in which it exists or works. We have no knowledge of it except through its effects.

Like the ether, it cannot in itself be seen, or touched, or felt, or weighed, or in any way appreciated by the senses, although, on account of its effects we recognise its presence everywhere. Accordingly, it has to be described indirectly. One or two descriptions of that kind may constitute the best general answer to your questions, covering them all together.

If you lift a weight to a height above the ground you furnish it with energy in the form called "potential," i. e., potent to do work, though not actually doing it at the moment. Whence was that potential energy derived? From your muscles, and while your muscles were lifting the weight the energy in them was in the state called "kinetic," i. e., causing motion, or doing work. You have caused a certain amount of energy to change its form: from the kinetic it has passed into the potential state.

ASPECT IS DIFFERENT

Essentially it is the same as it was before, but its aspect is different. From a battleship breaking the enemy's line it has become the same battleship at anchor. But unlike the battleship it has lost nothing; it needs no renewal of fuel or ammunition. In dealing one blow it has put itself in shape to deal another. Simply release the uplifted weight and it changes the potential energy that you gave back to kinetic energy by falling to the ground.

The uplifted weight is a good illustration of the definition of energy which was quoted above—"accumulated mechanical work." The higher the weight is lifted the more kinetic energy is stored away in it in the form of potential energy. Now when by the fall of the weight the potential energy becomes once more kinetic. what is the last state of things when the falling weight strikes the ground: What change does the energy then undergo? It is not destroyed or lost, and its essential nature is not altered, although it again experiences a change of state or from. It remains kinetic as long as it is actually doing any work, i. e., causing anything to move, which is a definition of work. It may make a deep dent in the ground, or it may crack a rock or smash itself against a rock, in all of which cases it will do work.

MAY TAKE FORM OF HEAT

It is likely to be divided among a number of different varieties of work, and if the resistance is very rigid and the force of the fall very great, most of the energy will take the form of molecular motion which we call heat. Or, if the weight is a pile-driver, falling on the head of a pile, its work will consist principally in driving the pile deeper into the earth.

But when that is done, when the pile has been driven as deep as the force used can drive it, when all the flying fragments of the shattered objects have come to rest, when the heat produced by the impact has been dissipated—what, then, has become of the energy?

It is still in existence, however scattered. Its nature is the same, though its manifestations, its ways of action, may be so changed as to escape detection. The pitcher puts kinetic energy into the whizzing ball, the catcher muffs the ball, and its energy passes into him, while, for an instant the ball has left only the potential energy due to its position four feet above the sand, but gravity turns this into the kinetic form while drawing it down. Back and forth the forms change one into another—footprints, ever varying in shape, of an invisible spirit!

When a pendulum bob is at the height of its swing its energy, for an instant, while it poises there, is all potential, but as the bob rushes down, more and more of the potential energy becomes kinetic, until it reaches the bottom of the swing, when it is all kinetic. And this store of kinetic energy accumulated at the bottom of the swing is not entirely changed back into the potential form until the bob reaches the top again on the other side. But mark that all the while there is little energy used up by friction and air resistance, and this loss has to be made good to the bob by a slight impulse communicated by the clock mechanism. The missing energy, however, is not really lost, i. e., not destroyed. It has produced vibrations in the air and heat in the bearings, though its effects may be so slight that we can only trace them with the mind's eye.

MAY EXIST ALONE

Now, to answer your questions more specifically in the light of what we have been saying, (1) Some philosophical physicists say there are three "entities" comprised in the physical universe, viz., matter, ether and energy, and others that there are only two, viz., matter and energy, called "the two indestructibles."

Energy, then, may have an independent existence, but we know of it only in connection with matter, (2) It can be "identified" only by its action upon the matter. (3) and (4) These have already been answered as far as possible. (5) The purport of the question is not clear. The "value" can be measured in units work, or of power.

Parents Should Avoid Error Of Plucking Child Too Green

BY DR. WM. A. McKEEVER
(Professor in the University of Kansas and a Well-Known Educator)

At the age of five a small, puny boy was started in at the public school, two years too young. At the age of sixteen he finished the high school smart in book memory but without assimilative knowledge of the subject matter and without any reliable choice as to the next step. The parents picked a college and sent the son through the course, which he completed with high percentage grades, that again with no reflective purpose of a life career based on the course of study pursued.

Not yet twenty-one, this young victim of over-advanced book training is now moping about home and hanging his head in shame of possessing no definite interest in a career. What is the matter? The disturbed father has just brought the case to me for analysis and advice. And my answer is ready and easy. The boy has been plucked too green all along the way.

I have watched this critical error of over-advancement of the pupil for many years, and have seen many young men and young women driven nearly to despair because of the fault of being forced mechanically through a course of study before there was sufficient growth from within to respond intellingently and emotionally to the lessons imparted. For a lesson is not learned if it is simply memorised. It must be felt. It is not mastered through mere routine, perusal and recitation. It must become assimilated through the interest and self-expression of the learner.

In the instance cited above, though a college graduate, the youth is still a mere boy with only the green passing interest in the course completed, and he is therefore deeply perplexed about a career. My criticism is that this young man must simply wait for life to ripen and for a career motive to spring up from within. The time will most certainly come—one, two, three years hence—when suddenly a clear vision of a calling will most probably spring into his mind and thrill him through and through.

It is Nature's way, God's way, and we parents must be content to wait for it. I do not know why a green banana should be poison and a ripe one luscious; why a green apple should be hard and a ripe one soft and mellow; why a green child—forced too soon to take or finish a task or school course—should be positively unreliable and irresponsive in the practical application of that course. But it appears to be God's own truth.

So again I must cry out against the hot-bed learning, the meaningless lessons which so many parents of America are still forcing from one to three years too early upon the attention of their children. No girl should finish a college course under twenty-one to twenty-three: no boy should finish under twenty-three to twenty-five. Not only should they go slower than the ordinary parents are willing to permit them, but they should make continuous use of the vacations and other times out of school to apply and assimilate through practice the lessons learned along the way. Often one of the puniest specimens I meet in a whole day's journey is the college graduate who knows nothing except the pale lessons he has memorised from books.

Municipal Enterprise

The municipality of the Swedish village of Orsa owns extensive forest lands, and by the judicious sales of some of them the village has a revenue of about £15,000 a year. The inhabitants pay no taxes of any kind. A really good education is provided for their children without the cost of a penny and each village in the district has its telephone, which is open free to the public use.

REVIVE TREASURE TROVE LEGENDS

Finding Of Skeletons Renews Tales Of Lafitte's, The Buccaneer's, Buried Hoard

Bishop, Tex., Aug. 28.—The legend that the ill-gotten treasure of Jean Lafitte, the notorious buccaneer of the early part of last century, is buried upon Padre Island, has been revived. This is due to the finding of twenty-five human skeletons in a sand pit on the bank of the Laguna Madre, about fifteen miles east of here, a few days ago. Since then well preserved pieces of ship timbers have been uncovered near the gruesome spot. The skeletons were discovered by Thomas Stel and O. S. Atwood of Corpus Christi. At first it was thought they were probably the remains of victims of the terrible tropical storm and tidal wave that swept over this part of the Gulf Coast a year ago. An examination of the bones, however, revealed that they had been deposited in the sand for many, many years. All the clothing and all other objects of possible identification had rotted away.

If this group of ill-fated men were members of the crew of Lafitte's treasure ship, the discovery of their skeletons bears out the tale that has been handed down by the descendants of the native Mexican population of the Gulf Coast region that the pirate chief did not go to Yucatan when he left Galveston Island, but that he sought safety from his avengers by locating upon Padre Island at a point just opposite where the skeletons were recently found. According to this tradition he brought his sailing vesse' into the Laguna Madre through the pass just below Point Isabel and during a storm it was beached near the camp of Lafitte. Before the ship broke up, the fortune that the pirate had gained during the years that he had preyed upon Spanish treasure ships, as they plied to and from Mexico, was taken off and buried in the sand.

If the twenty-five skeletons that were found near here belonged to Lafitte's pirate ship crew, the mystery of how they met their death remains to be solved. It opens up various theories of their possible tragic fate. They may have died, of some kind of plague or they may have been put to death by order of their pirate chief in order to preserve the secret of the location of the buried treasure.

The fact that historical evidence pretty well establishes the belief that Lafitte finally did reach Yucatan and that he died there, does not, it is asserted, disprove the legend that it was upon Padre Island or the mainland that he buried the fortune that he had gained during the long period in which he committed daring deeds of piracy. If he left his hidden treasure and went to Yucatan he may have done so in the expectation that he would return for it at some propitious time.

It was upon the mainland not far from the southern extremity of Padre Island that the American Army under Gen. Zachary Taylor met the Mexican hordes and fought the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palama. It was through Brazos Santiago Pass that separates Padre Island from a chain of smaller islands that a vast volume of trade passed to and from Mexico and the United States during the Civil War.
